March 12, 2002 LB 707

bracket motion but it gives us an opportunity to talk a bit. As he talks about some things, I'm going to talk about a Catholic Archbishop. And since he chose to attack me and my role as a senator, I'm going to deal with it, and if there are Catholics on the floor, such as Senator Foley, who want to call me vile, bigoted, and hateful, he is free to do that and I'll deal with him on the floor, but they usually wait. So in the rough and tumble world of politics, when the Catholic Church, through its Archbishop, sticks its nose into politics, notice how quiet it got in here and people are not asleep, then I'm going to mash that nose. Bruskewitz, Elden Curtiss, any of the rest of them, and if they think that bills can be brought by Catholics and others talking about child abusers, sexual predators, can be brought by them to be put into legislation and I cannot talk about a pandemic of child molestation by Catholic priests, they are crazy. Yes, I'm going to talk about it. When a plague is running rampant through this state and the country, and we find that bishops, archbishops and cardinals have known and covered up for child abusers, you think I'm going to be quiet when the least of Jesus' little ones are being sexually violated. Why, man, that is facetious. Jesus said it's better that you have a millstone tied around your neck and you cast into the sea, be cast into the sea than that you offend against these little children. And my colleagues, who are in full-throated cry on this floor in behalf of zygotes, embryos and fetuses are very silent when we see children, in being, sexually assaulted and abused by Catholic priests, then bishops and archbishops hustle them out of the state and try to cover it up. Where is all that outcry about the danger to the children? Are they going to have a special registry for Catholic priests who abuse children since there is an epidemic among them higher than that in the population as a whole? Do you think that because they are in a position of trust and where parents are taught to build a bond between these priests and the children, and these children...these...these priests betray that trust, do you think I'm not going to say anything about it because they wear a Roman collar and other priestly paraphernalia? Absolutely not. And I'm going to turn on my light because I've got to deal with Bruskewitz, Bruskewitz, and if Foley told him the lie, Foley, Bruskewitz, or Schlekelbekel (sic--Schleppenbach)...
